EPILEPSY WARNING

Please read before using any video game or allowing your children to use one.

Some people could have an epileptic seizure or loss of consciousness when exposed to flashing lights or certain normal conditions of everyday life. Such persons could risk a seizure while watching televised images or while playing certain video games, and this can occur even if there have been no previous medical problems or history of seizures. If you or a member of your family has ever shown symptoms (seizure or loss of consciousness when exposed to flickering lights) consult your doctor before playing. Parents should supervise their children's use of video games. If you or your children experience any of the following symptoms – dizziness, altered vision, eye or muscle twitches, loss of consciousness, disorientation, involuntary movements or convulsions – discontinue use immediately and consult your doctor.

Please Take the Following Game Precautions When Playing Video Games:

Do not sit too close to the television or computer screen. Position yourself with the linking cable at full stretch or at a full arms distance from the computer screen. Play video games preferably on a small screen. Do not play if you are tired or have not had much sleep. Make sure that the room in which you are playing is well lit. Rest for 10 – 15 minutes per hour while playing video games.

Dracula's Real Story

Prince Vlad III was born in 1431 and ruled a territory corresponding to today's Romania, on the borderline between two worlds, the Christian world with Hungary, and the Moslem world, with Turkey. Vlad III is more famous under his two well known nicknames: Tepes (the Impaler) and Dracula.

The origin of the latter is not clear. The Latin "draco" gave "drac" in Romanian, which means both "dragon" and "devil". Vlad III's father, Vlad II, was himself nicknamed Dracul because he belonged to the Order of the Dragon ("Societas draconistarum") founded by Emperor Sigismond of Luxembourg in 1408.

As for the son, Draculæ or Dracula, would be "the son of the Dragon" or "the son of the Devil". The nickname Dracula strangely also resembles an old Slavic word, "dr'kol'", which means "stake" or "pale". The word Dracula might therefore echo the Romanian "Tepes" (the Impaler) and recall the type of torture that the prince inflicted on his victims most often.

Dracula's sanguinary career and the double meaning of his name have contributed to building his heretical legend.
